

Notice of Product Price Revision

Dear Valued Customers,

We would like to express our sincere gratitude for your continued patronage and exceptional support.

As you may be aware, in recent times, the prices of raw materials and energy costs have continued to soar, accompanied by ongoing increases in labor expenses. In response to these challenging conditions, our company has made extensive corporate efforts to absorb these rising expenditures through business streamlining and cost-reduction initiatives to maintain current pricing levels. However, it has become increasingly difficult to offset these substantial cost increases through internal measures alone.

Consequently, in order to maintain consistent quality standards and ensure a stable product supply structure moving forward, we have decided to implement a revision of our product prices as detailed below.

We kindly ask for your understanding and cooperation regarding these circumstances. We remain committed to further enhancing our product quality and service levels, and we sincerely appreciate your continued business.

DETAILS

1. Effective Date	Orders received on or after Thursday, October 1, 2026 (JST)
2. Applicable Products	Standard catalog products (excluding certain items). * Details regarding custom-made products will be communicated individually by our sales representatives.
3. Price Revisions	Detailed revised pricing and the list of applicable products will be provided individually by our sales representatives in due course.

Sincerely,

Takenori Fukuda
